questions for March 21, 2018

1. At the breaking of the consecrated bread, the presider often says: "Christ our Passover has been sacrificed for us," and the people respond: "Therefore let us keep the feast". What do you make of this, in the light of the exodus story?

2. How is the Eucharist a foretaste of our promised land? How is it a return to the wilderness?

3. What does worship mean in the absence of the Eucharist?
